Thieves Raid Riggs Warehouse, Escaping With Cigarette Loot

Police Believe Four Men Were Implicated in Dresden Avenue Job Which Was Perpetrated Shortly Before 7 O'clock Sunday Morning—Entrance Effected Thru Transom.

LOOKOUTS POSTED AT TWO POINTS AS CONFEDERATES TOTE PLUNDER

One Motor Car, to Which Large Cartons Were Carried by Crooks, is Parked in West Eighth Street, While Second is Loaded Near Robbery Scene.

Robbers, who are believed to have used two automobiles in removing their loot, forced their way into the warehouse of the Riggs Wholesale Grocery company, Dresden avenue, shortly before 7 o'clock Sunday morning and escaped with approximately $1,300 worth of cigarettes.

One of the cars, police say, was loaded in Dresden avenue near the Riggs building, while the other machine, said to be a Chevrolet, was parked in Jefferson street near the old Louthan Manufacturing company's plant. The Chevrolet car, it is said, stopped at the West Eighth street filling station of the Standard Oil company before it was driven away, but the attendant failed to note the license number.

The thieves forced their entrance to the building by hurling a brick through the window of a transom above the railroad siding doors. One of the robbers is believed to have been assisted to the transom which is about 12 feet from the ground. The doors were opened from the inside.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

[The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.]

THE President says not more than $4,258,000,000 must be spent next year, not more than $225,000,000 cut from taxes in the national housekeeping.

Defense will cost $645,000,000. That amount spent on submarines and airplanes, with a sufficient number of fast cruisers would make the unsafe country absolutely safe, and turn away all thought of attack by other countries.

SIR SAMUEL HOARE tells the British parliament, "I shudder to think of the devastation that will be created by the development of the air arm upon our civil population, and particularly upon the civil population, and the south and southeast of England."

This nation does not even realize that war in the air will be the only important war. Our cities go on continuing piling up their gold, as defenseless against air attack as a rabbit war against weasels.

THE Intercontinental Rubber company is experimenting with the first tires ever made from an American product. The "rubber" comes from Guayule shrubs grown at Salinas, Cal. No doubt California, Texas, Mexico and many places can produce rubber or a substitute as good. But the problem is LAPOR. How can you compete

TWO GOVERNORS ANSWER BEATTY

James C. R. Beatty, pottery sales manager, who recently announced he will make a third race in 1928 for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in Ohio, today received acknowledgments of receipt of his "calling card"—decorated cup and saucer—from two governors, Vic Donahey, of the Buckeye state, and Al Smith of New York.

"It is my desire to retire to private life at the end of my present tenure," said Donahey in his letter. "You will have the field to yourself in 1928 as far as I am concerned." "The cup will certainly hold some votes," said Gov. Smith's reply. "Mrs. Smith joins me in thanks to you, also best wishes."

TROOPS HALT OKLAHOMA MEET

Governor Follows Walton Precedent in Assembly Fight.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Dec. 12.—Members of the Oklahoma legislature were dispersed at the door of the house of representatives here today as Brig. Gen. Charles McPherson in command of a handful of Oklahoma City national guardsmen.

Brig. General McPherson acted upon orders from Gov. Henry S. Johnston, who issued a proclamation early today declaring the capitol under martial law.

Seventy-nine members of the Oklahoma legislature were planning to meet to vote upon impeachment charges—the nature of which have been closely guarded—and set the senate high court of impeachment into motion and suspend the governor.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Dec. 12.—Following the precedent established by Gov. J. C. (Jack) Walton, in 1923, Gov. Henry S. Johnston of Oklahoma today ordered out state troops to prevent a meeting of the Oklahoma legislature which was to convene at 10 o'clock this morning in self-convened session to vote impeachment charges.

"Keep the legislature from meeting," was Governor Johnston's orders. The legislature met ten days ago and organized investigating committees, the senate resolving itself into a high court of impeachment to await charges from the house. Various moves in court ensued on the part of the governor, and last week the supreme court of the state ruled the session was not legal.

The criminal court of appeals, however, ruled the house members had the power to meet and consider impeachment charges. The charges have been carefully guarded.

5,000 military reservists, taking advantage of the fact that the majority of the troops of Generals Changakuei and Hang-hsiang were away at the front, attacked the government buildings and ousted all the officials.

The two generals, whose recent coup forced Lichseng from power, were compelled to flee aboard a warship, narrowly escaping death at the hands of the infuriated rebels.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—A powerful counter-attack against the Canton rebels has been launched by the Moderate Nationalists faction, according to a Central News dispatch from Hongkong today.

In the face of bitter and bloody resistance General Lifooklum, leader of the Moderates, recaptured the police headquarters which had been taken by the rebels, the Dispatch stated.

Hanley, 65, former clerk of Columbiana county courts and city clerk and a real estate broker here for the last 18 years, died in his home, College and West Fifth streets, at 8 o'clock Sunday morning, following a month's illness of complication of diseases. He had been in poor health for about a year.

He was born here on May 8, 1862, a son of the late Charles and Susan Curry Hanley. He took up the trade of a potter when a young man but left the pottery in 1892 when he was elected city clerk. He served in this office for 10 years.

He then returned to East Liverpool, where he formed a real estate partnership with Willis Davidson, son, under the name of Hanley & Davidson. Mr. Davidson retired from the partnership when the Davidson-Stevenson Porcelain company was organized.

REMUS DENIED MANDAMUS WRIT

Supreme Court Rejects Petition Against Prosecutor.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 12.—Appeal of George Remus for a writ of mandamus which sought to compel Hamilton County Prosecutor Taft to cease alleged coercing of witnesses, was denied by the Ohio supreme court here today.

The appeal was rejected on the grounds that Remus' petition was too general and contained nothing specific on which the supreme court could issue a writ, it was pointed out.

The court in issuing its rejection, declared that Remus' plea should be made in the Hamilton county courts in the form of an injunction or a petition in error.

COURT HOUSE, CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 12.—John S. Berger of Los Angeles, a star witness for the defense who was indicted and arrested on a charge of giving perjured testimony in the trial of George Remus for wife murder, appeared before the court and demanded that the indictment against him be quashed.

"The indictment against me was obtained by the prosecutor by fraud," declared Berger, adding that the state was trying to ruin his reputation which he worked 50 years to build up. Berger is a wealthy exposition promoter and a boyhood friend of Remus.

Possession charges filed against John Reardon and Mrs. Cecil Rech, said to be employees of the establishment, was dismissed by Judge Hanley after Anderson admitted ownership of the liquor.

CHAPTER XV.
THE ebony face of Croesus was insanguinated through the door.
"Mistuh Terry," he announced,
"somebody has done calt you on the telephone."
Bob smiled slightly. Croesus was one of the few persons in the world who could cause Terry's lips to expand with humor.
"Any idea who it is?"
"Dunno, sub. But I think"—Croesus lowered his voice and looked carefully about the room—"I think it was that lady from Mistuh Carmody's office."

A faint touch of color reddened Bob's cheeks. He finished knotting his scarf, donned his coat and went to the little telephone alcove in the upstairs hall. His voice was scarcely more than a whisper.
"Hello?"
"Hello, Bob?"
"Yes, Kathleen."
"Mr. Carmody wants to speak with you. I'll connect—"
"Just a minute. I'd rather talk with you."
"Now, Bob—"
"I would—really. There are lots of things—"
"I can't now, Bob. Mr. Carmody is waiting."
"When, then?"
"Lunch?"
"Oh! Great! 'I'll be—' Then the telephone was blank and an instant later he heard a click and Carmody's silk voice came to him over the wire.
"Terry?"
"Yes, sir."
"Coming down this way today?"
"I can, sir."
"How about sparing me a few minutes during the morning?"

"Yes, sir."
"At once?"
"Yes, sir."
"Good."
The connection broke. That was Carmody's way: superbly courteous and embarrassingly definite. But Bob was not at all averse. His problem in the Borden home was becoming acute and the birth of a personal interest in Louis had rather complicated matters. He felt the urge to ward a definite step; the inaction of the past three months was cankerous, and if John Carmody wished to see him—
He left word with Croesus that he would not be home until dinner time and then swung down town with a step a little less regular than the shuffling stride which he had acquired in the state penitentiary. He still walked with eyes downcast and fixed, but he was commencing to understand freedom and occasionally he changed his pace if only for the sheer delight of knowing that he could.
Kathleen was at her desk when he passed through her office, but she refused to talk with him. He stood regarding her for a moment, and there came over him the subtle difference which existed in his relations with her and with Louis Borden.

For three months he had been in intimate contact with Lois, yet not until recently had he sensed her as a woman. From the very outset, on the other hand, he had experienced sex consciousness of Kathleen Shannon. It was, perhaps, because she gave understanding rather than sympathy; because she, too, knew the dreary combat of a prison problem in one's personal life; because she spoke the language that he understood—or perhaps it was merely because she was young and vibrant with life—and very beautiful in a manner more vivid and picturesque.
There was iron in her blood and her nearness infused Bob Terry with a sense of power which he never experienced with others.
He looked up to Kathleen, but it was not the impersonal worship which he had accorded Lois in the old days before he had been sent to prison. Kathleen was disturbingly real, amazingly desirable.
And they belonged on the same plane. Therein lay the difference in the quality of his feeling toward the two girls. Lois was a creature of lofty altitudes; Kathleen was a human of his own kind. He smiled with a touch of boyishness as he pushed open Carmody's door and entered.

The slender man arose and advanced with hand outstretched. Bob's fingers, themselves not large, completely enclosed Carmody's hand, and he had the feeling that he could crush every bone in the lawyer's body by a mere contraction of the palm. Yet there was something in Carmody's eye which had prevented many men from that—not a gross threat of physical reprisal, but a promise of danger in case of enmity.
Carmody pressed a cigarette upon his visitor, installed him in a comfortable chair, and spoke sociably.
"I've been waiting, Terry?"
"For what, sir?"
"Your answer to my offer."
Bob hesitated. The man opposite cast a spell over him. He was so powerful in his weakness. He had triumphed so superbly over the handicap of physical frailty. Bob recalled the hero worship in the fine eyes of Todd Shannon when that grizzled veteran of two prisons had spoken of him—and there is a halo about a sinister reputation.
"I don't know, Mr. Carmody—"
"Listen to me, Terry—and I am a bit friendly: Aren't you letting things drift a bit too long?"
"I think so, sir. But then—"
"You haven't your bearings yet, eh?"
I quite understand that. It is the chief reason I called you in here. I want to talk with you. I like you and want to do what I can for you. No—it's not charity. You can be useful to me—quite useful. Your position in this city is unique. You have social contacts which this office can use in ways which will become more clear to you if you accept my offer. May I ask a personal question?"
"Of course."
"What do you think you like to do?"
What problem has kept you idle?"
Their eyes met. In Carmody's glance was penetrating keenness and understanding. And there was something else—cold speculation—Bob spoke haltingly. "I'm afraid you wouldn't understand—"
"I would."
"I went to prison for something I didn't do. It rather broke me. I used to have what you call ideals. I haven't any more. Does that seem queer?"
"Not at all."
The kindness of the man's voice emboldened Bob.
"In prison I was a convict. People came and stared at me. Once in a while somebody would ask who I was and the guard would tell them—right out loud, as though I were not a human being and didn't have any right to be ashamed. And after a while I wasn't ashamed. It was like that.
They found out that I could sing a little, and when the prison had a concert for some club women they made me sing. I didn't want to—but they told me to do it, and I had to. A sentimental ballad. And the woman all said how pathetic it was and they came to me afterwards and wanted to know why I was in prison and I told them embezzlement. There never was any use in explaining I was innocent." His fists clenched. "I could never sing again, Mr. Carmody."

"Go ahead."
"Todd Shannon was my friend. He made it pretty easy for me there.
When I couldn't get my task at first in the mill—each prisoner has a certain amount of work to turn out each day—Todd would stay over and help me. There were others, too; murders and burglars and hold-up men and dope peddlers. Those were my only friends for three years; and all that time I remembered that I was innocent and that I would not have been there except for Peter Borden.
And I swore that some day I'd get even for what he had done."
"Yet you went into his home as his guest." There was mild reproach in Carmody's tone.
Bob bit his lip and a fire of fury blazed in his eyes. "Because that was the best way to discover what would hurt him worst!"
"A-a-ah! I see."
"No you don't. Nobody does. Nobody will ever know how I feel toward that man. I pretend that I have forgotten and forgiven, but I haven't. I can't think of my future.
I can't think of work, I can't think of anything except getting even. I don't care a damn what they do to me afterwards." His voice dropped to a whisper. "But it isn't easy to make a man like Peter Borden suffer. He has so much when I was coming out of prison, I thought I'd steal from him: make him suffer in a material way. But he denied me even that pleasure by offering to give me everything he has."
"And you?"
"I'm helpless. There would be no use in stealing what I could have for the asking—and day after day I've been sitting at the house or walking around, pondering what I could do to get even. I don't suppose you understand that."
"Yes, Terry—I do. It is human and natural. And it was because I suspected all this that I sent for you, instead of waiting for you to come to me. In one way our interests are identical."
Bob showed his surprise. "Ours?"

As a protest against the dismissal without notice of the chief medical officer, 20 nurses walked out at the Park Prewitt hospital at Basingstoke, England, recently.

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

MONDAY, DECEMBER 12, 1927.

Buy Christmas Seals

The second week of East Liverpool's twentieth annual sale of Christmas seals, sponsored by the health committee of the City Federation of Women's Clubs co-operating with the Anti-Tuberculosis league, opened today.

Booths, in charge of club women and high school girls, have been established in downtown stores and theatres and the lobby of the post office, where the penny adhesives are on sale, while appeals have been made to church societies and lodges to purchase health bonds. The city's quota, $2,240, a per capita of 10 seals, must be attained before the Yuletide.

Money raised from the sale of these seals is used in fighting tuberculosis in East Liverpool as well as in other parts of the United States. Eighty-five per cent of the receipts is retained for home purposes, while the remainder goes to the state and national organizations. The educational value of the health messages is probably as important as the raising of funds.

The tuberculosis death rate has been steadily decreasing in recent years. The causes and cure of this disease are better understood nowadays, so the former are more easily avoided and the latter more faithfully carried out than ever before. It is no longer a matter of blank terror to find a tubercular condition. Prompt action usually checks it.

It is not an impossible vision to see a day when tuberculosis shall be an extinct disease, if humanity co-operates consistently and wholeheartedly in the work now recognized as practical and sure.

More Building Than Ever

Business prophets foresee an amount of new construction in this country next year greater than this year's total. To get the full force of that, it must be remembered that this year's total is said to be about $7,000,000,000, which is a high record.

This long-continued, steadily swelling wave of building is one of the most remarkable economic phenomena in the world.

After the war it was recognized that there was a considerable shortage of buildings of all sorts, resulting from a disregard of building needs while the nation's interest was centered on winning the war. Builders started right in to make up that deficit. A volume of construction developed that was unparalleled.

A time came, after four or five years, when by all normal standards of reckoning the shortage should have been made up. Yet the building boom continued; the wave kept on rising. Apparently the American people by this time should have far more houses, apartments, hotels, office buildings, factories, bridges, churches, city halls, etc., than they need. But if they have they do not think so, for they keep right on erecting more all the time.

Prosperity has brought new standards. Having the money, people want better housing, better hotels, better bridges, etc., than they ever had before, and more of them. Old statistics are worthless. We are in an economic age that disregards the past and makes its own precedents. And nobody knows where it will end.

The Air Hobo

When Eddie Stinson, aviator, was about to take off from the Detroit airport the other day, a young fellow about 20, wearing a toboggan cap and carrying no baggage, asked him for a "lift."

"Sure!" replied Stinson. "Hop on." So he hopped on, and they hopped off.

Landing at Raleigh, N. C., 600 miles distant, a few hours later, the passenger casually asked where he was, and with a word of thanks strode away.

Thus we find hoboes taking to the air. It is probably a sample of what aviation will have to face hereafter on a big scale. Flyers will be beset by gentlemen of the road and miscellaneous vagabonds of all brands and ages at every stop. There may be thumb-jerkers perched on every mountain peak, waiting for an aerial lift. Landing for gas on a remote island in the middle of the Pacific, the aviator may expect to find human derelicts pleading for a free ride to the nearest continent.

Constructive Mexico

Will Rogers, jaunting about through Mexico with President Calles and Ambassador Morrow, is still following his admirable custom of telling us Americans back home just what he sees. He has excellent judgment about what is important, as well as a gift for showing up things which only seem important because of false emphasis.

The other day he reported seeing a dam and irrigation plant that will irrigate 200,000 acres. "That's as big for Mexico as the Boulder Dam scheme is for the United States." There are to be three such plants—one is now under construction. More than 150 American civil engineers are there engaged in that work. "So," says Will, "they are doing something down here besides shooting at each other."

We could stand knowing considerably more about real progress in Mexico—about the educational conditions and plans, about the development of natural resources, and other activities and ideals that would enable us to see Mexico not as a nation of bandits and revolutionists, but as a nation of human beings struggling toward the achievement of higher standards of living and government and independence. Such knowledge should arouse helpful interest in us instead of mere meddlesomeness and irritation.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Diary of a modern Pepsy: Lay late, as usual, and broke bread with Karl Kitchen, and to walk, discussing things grave and gay. Then home and at my labours until Irvin Cobb came to say farewell against departing soon for a tour of South America.

A drizzle falling I set off to stroll in Central Park and around the reservoir fell in with a stranger who told me a strange tale. He had discharged his valet the day before and going home found the fellow had snipped buttons from every garment in his wardrobe.

In the evening to the Commodore to a dinner George Sweeney gave to James Woods. And Reed Albee, Walter Vincent, their wives and Father Malone of Denver there and we sat about talking of this and that until the clock struck one. So home to bed.

Jefferson Market Jail—for years the home of the night court where staying ladies stood in wordless agony of sobbed promises to be better—will soon be a memory. In New York fashion a 20-story apartment building will rise on the historic site. Crouching under the shadows of the glowering elevated it has been, next to the Tombs, the gloomiest building in town.

Back of the Jefferson Jail is one of the most interesting streets in the city. It is a spot the tourist rarely sees—a blind alley about one hundred feet long and known as Patchin Place, a refuge for innumerable writers, painters and sculptors.

Patchin Place is a double row of quaint little red brick houses with white stoops and Georgian cornices. There are alanthus trees for shade and for many years at night at the blind end stood a lamp-post with blobs of dim and uncertain light.

It is much like one of those seemingly forgotten narrow and winding streets in Paris even to the famous concierge Mrs. Wiedersweiler who recently passed on. Houses in Patchin are for six separate tenants and there are in all 55 apartments.

With the new apartment building, Patchin Place will be more completely hemmed in. But the compensation is that the big structure will help deaden the rattle of the elevated and the noise of screaming and terrified men and women brought into the jail.

Among those who found a temporary haven in Patchin Place are such illustrious figures as Padriac Colum, E. E. Cummings, John Reed, Alys Gregory, John Cowper Powys, John Howard Lawson, Mary Digges and J. B. Flannagan.

In Patchin Place years ago I was at one of those studio parties where guests sit cross-legged on the floor in candle light and attempt "arty" conversation. There was a young girl there who wore a Grecian robe and sandals and burned up cigarettes with three or four deep inhalations. To my plow-boy mind, she was the essence of sophistication as she talked of this lover and that with startling frankness. She told how she ruled men by kicking them out, only to have them returning contrite and whining. I came from a community where women often ruled men by gentle fits of fainting. It was quite a revelation. Less than a year ago I heard of the same lady living in a small town near Topeka, Kansas. She was the wife of a simple grocer, the mother of his three children, a weekly attendant at the neighborhood movie and quite happy.

A man who has long been one of those slick salesmen of doubtful stocks—but is now a better boy—writes me dentists and doctors were his easiest victims. He says that due to their absolute lack of business knowledge they became gullible for the sort of glib talk the average business man would give, a merry laugh.

Pauline Lord seems America's most finished tear-jerker. Hers is the art of faltering and inarticulate emotionalism which brings a freshet of tears with a quiver of the chin. George C. Tyler took her in hand this season to present her in a play that sent the audiences away sobbing out loud.

agement to large agricultural business organizations owned and controlled by farmers and managed by strong business executives chosen by the producers.

"Such organizations would be helpful not only in the merchandising of products but also in adjusting production to demand," says the secretary. "I believe the time will come when farmers' cooperative institutions will be firmly established as our great organizations of industry, transportation and labor. Then the farmer will have more control over his business and more influence in matters of national economic policy."

"If these cooperative organizations would help agriculture and be generally beneficial to the country, their development should be encouraged. They are now 'infant industries.' It has long been our concern to encourage the growth of industry. This policy has been an important reason for our protective tariff, under which, with the assistance of science and invention and the initiative of American business executives, we have become industrially preeminent. It is entirely consistent with established American policy to foster a beneficial agricultural movement in its early stages."

Organize on Commodity Basis.
It is Secretary Jardine's idea that the farmers' cooperatives should be organized on a commodity rather than on a community basis. Organizations should draw membership, he says, mainly from producers in whose scheme of farm management the major farm products predominate. In this way a natural bond of common interest is established at the outset. Although the form of organization might vary with the conditions pe-

WELLSVILLE HIGH CAGERS OPEN SEASON SATURDAY

KLINCK QUINT SLATES BATTLE WITH WOODLAWN

Pennsylvanians Will Give Squad Hard Workout.

TWO VETS PLAY

Regular Schedule Will be Started January 6.

Coach Earl Klinck's high school basketball squad will informally open the 1927-28 cage season on Saturday night against the Woodlawn High quint on the Wellsville court. The opening clash will take the form of a practice game rather than anything else, in view of the fact that the regular schedule will not be started until January 6.

The game with the Pennsylvanians will give Coach Klinck an opportunity to look over his prospects. He has only two veterans back from last year and faces the task of rebuilding the team with the forward vacancies at present causing the greatest concern. George Callahan, center, is back this year and his presence insures the safeguarding of that post. Wilbur Terry, captain of the 1927-28 outfit, will hold down one of the guard posts. Other likely material includes Snowdon, Deuval, Householder, Thompson, Weekley, Pacey and Sherry, practically all football men, as well as a number of others.

On an average, Klinck has been working a squad of about 25 men for the past few weeks. The Woodlawn team is coached by Nate Lippe, who played a forward position last year with the Enoch Raubers.

In "Curl" Battle

Beauty specialists in Kansas are up in arms against each other. The new board of state cosmetologists, of which Mrs. Charles Laraden, above, is president, issued a rule providing that beauty experts who work in their homes cannot marcel unless they do so in a room apart from their living quarters and where there are sewerage connections and running water. The private home specialists feel this rule imposes a hardship and will fight it at a coming meeting in Wichita, Kan.

SALARY BOOST IS VOTED DOWN

Mayor's Ordinance Losses on Four to Three Ballot.

Ordinance calling for an increase in the salary of Mayor W. L. Fogo, introduced Saturday night at an adjourned meeting of council, was twice voted down by a four to three count, first as an emergency measure and then on first reading.

Ordinance suggests a raise of $25 monthly in the mayor's pay, giving him $1,800 yearly. He now receives $1,500.

Councilmen Connor, Reil and Heldman voted against giving the increase while Solons McLean, Peters, Swearingen and Nicholson approved it. An expenditure of money requires a two-thirds vote.

The solons also voted to pay the bill of $37.75 submitted by Carl Jay as claim for damages he says his automobile received when it struck a manhole cover which projected above the street in the west end.

The ordinance extending a 35-year franchise to the Ohio Power company was passed unanimously on third reading and adopted by the municipal legislative body. It goes now to the mayor for his inspection.

Council adjourned until tomorrow night.

B. & W. Tire Service Joins in Plan to Broadcast.

The announcement is made by B & W Tire Service of 739 Dresden Avenue, exclusive representatives of the Seiberling Rubber Co., that they are joining with 5,000 other dealers in the weekly program of the Seiberling Singers who start broadcasting tonight at 8 o'clock, New York time, from station WEAJ and through 26 other stations of the National Broadcasting Co.'s famous Red Network. Thereafter for a full year the Seiberling Singers will be heard at the same hour each Tuesday evening.

According to Homer Brown of the B & W Service, who made the announcement today, the Seiberling Singers have been selected from outstanding soloists and chorists in New York and vicinity. Included in this male chorus is a special quartet which has drawn on the Metropolitan Opera company and the concert stage for its membership. Assisting this chorus is a special orchestra recruited entirely from the leading players in symphonic orchestras regularly appearing in New York.

Marshall Bartholomew, who won nationwide attention as Music Director of the National War Work Council, will be director of the Seiberling Singers. Hans Barth, an eminent American pianist and composer, is the concert pianist for the group and will be in charge of instrumentation.

Home-made, but Ends Coughs in a Hurry

A family supply of dependable cough medicine. Easily made and saves about $2.

If you have a severe cough or chest cold, with soreness, throat tickle, hoarseness or difficult breathing, or if your child wakes up at night with a hoarse cough, and you want quick help, try this reliable old home-made cough remedy. Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. This makes a pint of really remarkable cough remedy. It tastes good, and in spite of its low cost, can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens and raises the phlegm, stops throat tickle and soothes and heals the irritated membranes of the throat and bronchial tubes with an ease and promptness that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, which is probably the best known means of overcoming severe coughs, throat and chest colds.

There are many worthless imitations of this mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Defer Federal Move In Bank Closing

U. S. Commissioner
Postpones Action
Pending Examination of Records of New Cumberland Institution.

The United States Commissioner's office at Wheeling today announced that action in the closing of the First National Bank at New Cumberland had been indefinitely postponed pending the completion of the examination of the bank's records.

No charges have been preferred against John A. Brandon, president, and James E. Brandon, Jr., assistant cashier, of the defunct bank, according to federal officials. The two brothers, it is claimed, advised the commissioner that they would be available in case they were wanted.

H. A. Graham, federal bank examiner from the Cleveland district office, upon whose orders the bank was closed about three weeks ago, has not completed his audit of the books. Doors of the bank were opened last week to give depositors an opportunity to have their pass books checked. Business men and manufacturers of New Cumberland and farmers of the surrounding territory have launched a movement to organize a state bank in the town.

Announcement is made of the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Patton, Carolina avenue, born Saturday. The mother was formerly Miss Edythe Evans.

WEIRTON FREIGHT BUSINESS CLIMBS

Movement of freight at the Weirton office of the Pennsylvania railroad for the month of November, shows an increase in out-going freight and a decrease of incoming freight.

Company officials attributed the increase to greater production at the Weirton Steel company plant, and the closing of the Great Lakes navigation, through which materials of iron ore, were shipped to Weirton during the summer.

According to records at the Weirton freight office, for the first 11 months of 1927, the total number of cars in movement in and out of Weirton, were 139,549, which would be if hauled in one train, 1,099 miles long. It required 4,734 trains to move the cars. The tonnage hauled reached a grand total of 3,432,083.

The record set in 1926 in freight movement is expected to be broken this year, according to railroad officials.

The program for the event has been outlined and will include some of the best known authorities on coal mining problems in this and other states. Reforestation will also be an issue at the coming state meeting, and A. B. Brooks, chief of the state fish and game commission will be one of the speakers.

E. S. Wade, of Wheeling, was recently named president of the state institute, succeeding R. M. Lambie, chief of the state mine bureau. Mr. Wade will preside over the sessions of the institute, and heads the committee on arrangements.

Choir Rehearsals.

Choir of the First Presbyterian church will hold rehearsals Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights for the cantata "The Manger Prince," which will be given in the church next Sunday evening.

Highway between Chester and Newell which has been closed for improvements during the past three weeks was opened to traffic on Saturday night.

The road, beginning at a point above the Newell bridge was improved by brick paving for a distance of approximately 1,200 feet connecting with the concrete section of the highway.

Work of widening the road beginning at the concrete portion will be deferred until next spring, according to a statement made today by a county official.

The contract was held by David Robinson of New Cumberland.

Shortly after the first of the new year plans will be made by the county court for improvements in other sections of the county.

BROOKE COUNTY PLANS NEW JAIL

Additional plans and specifications, have been received by the Brooke county court, for the construction of a new county jail and sheriff's residence, in 1928.

The court, has during the past several months received many sets of plans from architects in the district, for their contemplated construction of a new court house, sheriff's residence and jail. While no action has been taken by the court aside from viewing and discussing the plans, the court has expressed a belief that some official action would be taken after the first of the year.

While funds will not be available for the construction of the court house, residence and jail, the court has intimated that contracts will be let for the construction of a jail and sheriff's residence for 1928, and in another two years, construction work commenced on the court house.

COAL BARONS DECLINE DAVIS' PEACE CALL

Washington Parley to Settle Strike May Fail.

MINERS ACCEPT
District Presidents of Union Will Attend.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 12.—Secretary of Labor James P. Davis' "peace conference" to settle the 1927 coal strike, apparently will resolve itself into a gathering of district president of the United Mine Workers of America in Washington, D. C. tomorrow.

This was the indication here today as officials of all but one coal company in western Pennsylvania announced refusal of the invitation of the secretary of labor's proffered invitation.

The Bertha Consumers company, so far as is known, here, is the only large coal company that has signified its intention of sending a representative to the meeting.

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 11.—Ohio coal operators, meeting here today in executive session, declined the proposal of Secretary of Labor James P. Davis for a "peace conference," to effect a settlement of the 1927 coal strike.

The message of declination was signed by S. H. Robbins, president of the Ohio Coal Operators' association.

TRAINMAN KILLED

Crash Occurs at Guffey, Westmoreland
County, Pa.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 12.—State and railroad officials today started an investigation of the derailment of seven coaches of the Detroit Limited of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad last night near Guffey, Westmoreland county, Pa., which killed one man, two others were seriously injured and scores of passengers were shaken up, according to word received here today.

C. H. Winters, baggage master was killed and Engineer Charles Beltz and Conductor John Kelly, were seriously injured.

Several rails were twisted, ties were crushed and telegraph poles were knocked down, according to witnesses, from the impact of the derailed coaches. The derailed coaches were of steel construction and it was this that saved the passengers from serious injury it was said.

Meagre information was received at the Baltimore and Ohio railroad offices here this morning due to lack of communication facilities.

Hungarian Members of Parliament May

LONDON, Dec. 12.—Terror reigns in Transylvania, where Roumanian students have been engaging in pogroms against Hungarians and Jews, according to a Budapest dispatch to the Daily Mail today.

An alleged Roumanian committee, the dispatch stated, is investigating the disorders and while doing this is terrorizing witnesses who presented evidence implicating Roumanians.

Excitement was described as intense. The Roumanian minister of the interior was urged by the Hungarians to visit the district and dismiss the Roumanian committee, the dispatch said.

Hungarian members of the Roumanian parliament, it was added, have been urged by their constituents to resign.

on state witnesses. She sat at a witness table between her attorneys, Francis Poulson and Richard Boswick. Her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Van Woert were present.

Shortly before the hearing got under way, Prosecutor Paulin was quoted as saying that he believed the state could prove its charges of first degree murder against the blonde flapper-widow, who is alleged to have confessed that she beat her husband to death with a clawhammer.

On the other hand, her attorneys have expressed confidence that the accused girl will rise from the bewilderment of the crime and show the world she is irresponsible.

If he is successful in presenting the argument that the murder was committed in "blind fury," Poulson would make it possible for Judge Helter to reduce the charge against the 21-year-old blonde from first to second degree murder or manslaughter. He might even be able to obtain her release on bond, though the latter possibility is considered unlikely.

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW who likes to be different, even in a disagreeable way, advises Americans not to send any money to buy shoes for poor children in Dublin, "for anything else." Shaw, born in Ireland, says that country is "an incorrigible beggar."

MR. SHAW has become rich, lives in London, and perhaps does not remember Irish condition.

This writer can assure him, that not so long ago, traveling through the south of Ireland, by jaunting car, dozens of Irish children could be seen running along the road, with bare feet in cold weather, begging for pennies. If you have any money to buy shoes for Dublin children, send it.

GERMANY takes bootlegging seriously. Fines amounting to more than $33,000,000 were inflicted on a gang of smugglers bringing bootleg liquor into Mayence, and more recently a fine of 16,500,000 marks, about $1,100,000, with a year in prison, was the punishment of five Hamburg bootleggers.

Germany is able to deal with bootlegging, and German public opinion is with law enforcement, partly because Germany does not attempt that which would be impossible, namely to force the people to drink nothing but water.

GERMAN Socialists failing in their effort to abolish the death penalty, did succeed in changing the costume of the headman who chop off criminals' heads. That's the German method of capital punishment.

Here-of-e the headman wore formal "full dress." This was done out of respect for the man about to die. Socialists say a sack suit is good enough and that's what the headman will wear hereafter.

WHEN Tycho Brahe went up to his observatory to study and catalog the stars, he wore his finest clothing, lace and velvet, saying that he was going into the presence of his Maker.

And Buffon, writing his great works on natural history, considered his job so honorable that he wrote with lace cuffs and a coat of silk brocade.

Our electric chair executioners, disgracing science by using it for killing, wear "a business suit." It's a sorry business.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative mixed with olive oil.

No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them 15c, 30c, 60c.

Prescott Jewelry Always Good as Christmas Gifts

The selection of Christmas gifts is considerable of a worry where one does not know definitely beforehand just exactly what he or she is going to buy for the prospective recipient. Wearing apparel, of course, always is a standard gift in any case, but some prefer to give something with a little feeling or expression in it rather than a matter-of-fact hat, or pair of gloves, although the latter are mighty useful.

But for the expression of real sentiment there is hardly any gift, small or large, that can compare with jewelry. R. F. Prescott, St. Clair avenue jeweler, calls attention of East Liverpool folks to his especially selected Christmas stock. If there is anything in the jewelry line that you want most particularly, he is in a position to get it for you.

And Prescott also provides the additional service of jewel re-setting and designing. Perhaps you want your diamond in a new mounting. Experience in some of the biggest plants in the country has qualified Prescott to do this work and, as well, the remodeling of old designs in other forms of jewelry.

Kaiser Baking Co., Expands; Quality Remains The Same

Manufactured first in a small store room in Pennsylvania avenue and now in one of the most modern and up-to-date plants in the district, baked goods made by the Kaiser Baking company have not deviated from the high standard that was determined upon when the first loaves of bread came from the ovens almost seven years ago.

While conditions under which Kaiser products were produced have changed considerably, the quality of their baking has not.

The company began operations on February 26, 1921, in charge of W. E. Kaiser, W. E. Kaiser Jr. and J. W. Kaiser. In a small store room at 1154 Pennsylvania avenue. The business increased and the building eventually was enlarged.

The company is incorporated for $25,000, under laws of the state of Ohio. It now operates four trucks, serving consumers in East Liverpool, Chester, Newell, Wellsville, Midland and Beaver.

Their modern and thoroughly sanitary plant is equipped with the latest labor saving machinery such as high speed mixer, flour sifter and blender, overhead proofer, divider and moulder.

Entertainment is Your's With Hall's WorkRite Radios

Entertainment of the highest order, ranging from vaudeville to grand opera, the field of sports—baseball, football, hockey, basketball—political conference, orchestras, entertainment of a varied nature, entertainment that is cheap, is brought into the home through the air in this age of radio, and the WorkRite is the machine that reaches into the ether and gets it all clearly, plainly and always to the satisfaction of its owner.

The WorkRite radio is distributed here by Ben F. Hall, Washington street electrical contractor. It is a beautiful piece of furniture. And other than that one of the most effective receivers on the market. Reproduction of voice and all musical notes without the slightest distortion was the goal sought and reached in the manufacture of the WorkRite. While this receiver will bring in the distant stations with good volume, the outstanding feature is the pure tone quality, so much desired.

In connection with the WorkRite radio and other radio appliances, Hall also is agent for Kleartone guaranteed battery, the batteries that ARE guaranteed.

Your Plumbing Job Will be Reliable If Porter Does it

Imperfect plumbing is bound to make itself known in the winter time, and, often enough, at a time when it is most inconvenient.

It is difficult to get instant hot water, not lukewarm, but steaming hot water when you want it when the boiler down in the cellar is leaking, or the pipes are corroded and partially filled up, so that when some one turns the water on in one room, you can't get it in another.

You might try turning the gas under the boiler on in full blast but your fuel bill at the end of the month will show you the inadvisability of that.

A good plumber is the only solution to the problem. Give your trouble to C. K. Porter, Chester plumber and contractor and he'll guarantee your future freedom from annoyance such as these.

If you install a haphazard plumbing system you're only creating future trouble for your own self. Buy plumbing of a brand that has characterized Porter's jobs for the past several years and be certain before a stroke of work is done that you'll get satisfactory results.

Youngstown Auto Body Co., Has no Peer in Own Line

"Making wrecked cars look like new," a job that the Youngstown Auto Body Co., Pennsylvania avenue, has been at for a number of years here, has proven more of an advantage to the customer than many suspect. There are many striking examples of the results accomplished by this firm.

In brief, here's one: A motorist recently had the misfortune to crash in a fender on his brand new car. It appeared the only remedy was a new fender. The dealer at that moment had none in stock. He gave the job to the Youngstown Auto Body Co. The car, fixed up again, was taken back to the owner who expected to pay for a new fender. He was dumfounded when told the fender was not a new one and admitted he could see no difference. But there was a difference, which was—he paid only a trifling sum in comparison to what he would have paid for a new fender.

This firm can do all of these things because it is equipped to do them. Mr. Holtzman, manager, knows the business from A to Z and has surrounded himself with the best craftsmanship that can be procured in this line.

When a job leaves the Youngstown Auto Body company it is guaranteed.

In the way of war comedies, produced for Fox Films under the direction of Ben Stollhoff comes to the Ceramic theatre for a three-day run beginning today.

It is a hilarious picturization of some of the many funny situations the boys found themselves in when they took leave without asking permission during the late unpleasantness.

Unlike the majority of war comedies there is a definite plot having to do with the sleep-walking activities of the son of a certain millionaire and the faithful watch kept over him by his two trusty bodyguards, sent to France by his father with instructions to never leave their young master out of their sight.

Gene Cameron, an extremely popular young comedian, plays the leading role. Sammy Cohen and Ted McNamara, the famous team from "What Price Glory," are his attendants, and Holmes Herbert, well known character actor, his father.

The feminine end of the picture is held up by Judy King and Betty Francisco, Judy playing a French girl and Betty the lovely driver of an ambulance whom Gene leaves behind for his father to take care of.

Ben Stollhoff, who served his apprenticeship as a director making two reel comedies for Fox, directed the production, which was adapted from an original story by William Conselman and Edward Marshall.

TALMADGE HIT AT AMERICAN

Hollywood Beauties in Screen Cast of "Camille."

Assembling in one scene all the most famous sirens of history, the makers of Norma Talmadge's modern screen "Camille" which opened a three-day run at the American theatre today have selected the pick of Hollywood's beauties to portray Cleopatra, Sappho, Du Barry and others whose seductive charms swayed men and nations.

This concourse of ancient, medieval and modern sirens which forms one of the highlights in "Camille" is a mad revel at the Dumas heroine's home. The notable Lorelei, who played havoc with hearts in each period, are represented. At the peak of the festivities the "Lady of the Camellias," most fascinating and exotic of them all, enters and her costume brings gasps from even the other sirens. She is the last word in women loved by men, a girl who has dukes and counts at her feet, but who finally tires of wealth and gaiety and gives her heart to a comparatively poor youth.

That is "Camille," the siren who found her soul.

Directed by a master, Fred Niblo, the modern "Camille" is admittedly Norma Talmadge's outstanding feature. The settings, gowns and dramatic appeal dwarf any previous effort in the star's career.

Short subjects and a musical program complete the program. Starting Thursday, the American and Strand announce a special Christmas Shoppers' price, continuing until December 26th, of 10 cents to all patrons between the hours of 12:30 and 2 p. m.

Haskin's Letter

cular to each major crop, in principle all such organizations should be the same, it is explained. Producers in each locality should unite in a local unit, whether organized around a cotton gin, a shipping association, a cemetery, a local elevator, or any other appropriate unit. Federation of the locals into regional and national associations should follow. The object would be to exercise a stabilizing influence in the market and to market products efficiently. Such organizations can not be developed in a day, but their growth can be accelerated by proper encouragement.

"However," continues the secretary, "governmental assistance should be given only in response to a demand for it from the producers. It would be futile for the government to set up organizations in behalf of the farmers without their interest and initiative."

In other words, the government is not to thrust its good offices on the farmers. The secretary also points out that the success of great commodity cooperatives projected would mean readjustments in the present machinery for the marketing of agricultural products. Some concerns now in the business would be forced to drop out and others would probably find their operations less profitable. But all that is to be regarded as a part of the price of progress.

"In a sense this problem is analogous to that arising from technical progress in production," says the head of the department. "Labor-saving machinery and other improvements have often been vigorously opposed by workers fearing loss of their jobs. Yet, such improvements have increased the productivity of labor, and have become the foundation of high wages. I am convinced that the type of business organization I have outlined for agriculture would benefit the country in a similar manner."

Largely a Credit Problem.

Lack of proper credit facilities has retarded the development of orderly marketing through cooperative, it is stated. During the past year rediscussions of farmers' notes have been available to banks and credit corporations at a rate of 4.75 per cent, making the rate to the farmer and rancher on such loans from 6 to 7.25 per cent, and direct loans to cooperatives have been made at 4.5 per cent. Nevertheless, the benefit of these intermediate rediscunt and loan rates has reached only limited numbers. Furthermore, in certain agricultural sections, banking facilities have seriously broken down and local credit facilities have been even less adequate than usual.

Bank credit for production purposes often costs the cotton grower as much as 12 per cent, with 10 per cent a very common figure, while merchant credit infrequently costs 40 per cent or more when all charges in connection therewith are figured on an annual interest basis, says Mr. Jardine. Whatever the source of this credit, the cost of it should be reasonable and the terms and conditions such that the farmer is not forced to market his crops immediately after harvest without regard to the state of the market.

The department sent out questionnaires last December to a number of cotton growers and 3431 responded with information as to the marketing of their crop of that year. Of that number, 2639 reported that they had marketed their cotton as soon as ginned, 37 per cent of them giving their credit obligations as a reason for that action.

Secretary Jardine declares that public responsibility to agriculture in helping to minimize price fluctuations due to unavoidable surpluses is in a large measure a problem of suitable credit that makes possible holding a part of the surplus crop off the market from one season or one year to the next. This assistance need not be a subsidy, he says but an extension of public credit to help reduce that hazard of farming which is due to unavoidable fluctuations in production and consequently in prices.

The secretary suggests further that the federal government is not the only place to which agriculture should look for assistance. The sphere of state legislation should not be overlooked.

"In view of the fact that so much has been said about the expansion of federal influence and the subordination of state authority," he says, "it is surprising that so little has been said about the sphere of the states in the field of agricultural legislation. A great deal could be done by the states themselves to put agriculture on a stronger economic basis. This applies especially to state and local banking and to taxation and public expenditures in their relation to agriculture. Farmers in many of the mid-western states would have been better off today had sound local banking prevailed during the war and in the post-war boom."

Scrappers Await Bell For Eagles' First Mitt Show Of Year

24 Rounds of Fighting on Night's Card

Amateurs, Pros Line Up for Action on F. O. E. Bill.

Eagles' first boxing show of the indoor season, reviving the sport that has been dormant here for several years, or since Joe Armshaw gave fight fans here a look at some of the best small pugs in the Tri-State district, will be reeled off tonight with an array of featherweights, welters, bantams and light heavies lined up and waiting for the bell.

Twenty-four rounds of glove tossing are on the program arranged by Matchmaker Tom McDonough for the F. O. E. arena in Broadway.

Pete Cannell, Youngstown, and Johnny Kusie, Philadelphia, featherweights, are billed for the main bout at eight rounds. Both have the recommendation of Al Zill, Youngstown promoter, as aggressive, hard-hitting jads.

The remainder of the card—three bouts—calls out district amateurs in the first matches of a proposed elimination series.

Ross Pansey, Midland, and Jimmy Malone, of Chicago, a former Wells, ville youth, will headline the list of sinner pures. The bantams are scheduled for four rounds.

George Pickens, of East Liverpool, and Paul McCray, of Wellsville, welterweights, are in another four-rounder, and Louis Campbell, of this city, and Young Anthony, of Youngstown, tangle in the four-round curtain raiser.

The first bout will go on at 8:15. McDonough will referee the preliminaries and semi-final, and Tony Zill, Youngstown fighter, will handle the main scrap.

Sport Review of 1927

BY NORMAN E. BROWN.

In Twelve Rounds—Including the Long Count—Round One

To say that the sport year of 1927 opened with a bang is cutting down the explosion to a squeak. Stanford University and Alabama met on the gridiron before the year was 18 hours old and gave football fans the biggest thrill of a hectic football season prolonged through the holidays. The game ended in a 7 to 7 tie. The Pacific coast team had outplayed the southerners and was leading 7 to 0 nine minutes before the game ended.

Then Jim Bowdoin, substitute guard on Alabama's line, broke through to block a Stanford punt. Four plays, in which Dinslett, All-American star, led, carried the ball to Stanford's goal and Johnson shoved it over. Caldwell kicked the goal that tied the score. Then came the whistle.

And before the year was 24 hours old, Swede Risberg, "Black Sox" outcast, had bared to Judge Landis a story of alleged throwing of games.

So we gave 'em the money, Judge. The story of the "Black Sox" scandal, which rocked the baseball world to its foundations—and the sub-cell below.

back in 1917 that rocked the baseball world to its foundations—and the sub-cell below.

Risberg told a tale of the White Sox players "chipping in" to a pot which was turned over to the Detroit players to "let" the Sox ride through a four-game series. In the hearing that followed and threw baseball into the worst light it has enjoyed since the 1919 world's series scandal was uncovered, the Detroit players involved insisted that the money was given them to play harder against the Red Sox—and not to lay down for anyone.

The players involved were exonerated by Landis.

[Note: At this point Stangler Lewis defeated Big Munn at Chicago and the public fell for the stuff again.]

The letters offered by Dutch Leonard at a profit of $20,000 to himself, had stirred baseball before the winter reached Jan. 1 and before that month was over had brought more action.

Cobb and Speaker were eventually exonerated by Judge Landis. Ban Johnson's attack on Landis over the matter and his vitriolic denunciation of Speaker brought on another Landis Johnson row and before the month ended Johnson had been virtually ousted as active president of the American league.

The Long Count. Tex Rickard took a week-end trip from New York to St. Louis to see Gene Tunney and the most important result of the trip was the long count Tunney received at Chicago.

Wyant Hubbard, former Harvard grid star, came right out in a magazine with mean remarks regarding Princeton's football ethics and Princeton adherents spent the next two weeks saying it wasn't so.

Football fans also were interested in the first of the gridiron changes that came—the resignation of Glenn Thistlethwaite as coach at Northwest.

After a five-year reign, Dick Hancley, coach of Carlisle Indian school, succeeded him and his first year was a bust. Northwestern admitted it—and signed Dick for another year.

Some Trades. After sufficient publicity had been obtained Rogers Hornsby signed to captain the Giants—at $40,000 a year. Baseball fans got another morsel when the Washington club traded Roger Peckinpaugh to the White Sox for Pitchers Mangum and Thurston.

No earthquakes. The Browns traded McManus to the Tigers for half a dozen players. Some result. The Yanks traded Aaron Ward to the Sox for Grabowski and Moorehart also.

Track athletics demanded attention when Edwin Wide, Swedish middle distance star and conqueror of the great Nurml, came to America to show his stuff at indoor meets.

Willie Hoppe, who learned to shoot billiards while Iron Man Joe McGinnity was playing one old cat, won back the 182 ballline billiard title by defeating Eric Hagenbacher at St. Louis.

The Big Swim. America's first "channel" swim was pulled off by William Wrigley from Catalina Island to the Pacific Coast mainland and was won by George Young of Toronto.

Young, Toronto lad, who made his way to the coast in the side car of a second-hand motorcycle.

Harry Cooper, Dallas, Tex., golfing phenom, shook the golf world by ears by romping off with the $10,000 open tournament at Los Angeles. A short time later he took Walter Hagen over at Dallas 10 to 9 during a sectional tourney there, giving the game its second thrill.

Three fights of interest were staged. Fidel La Barba, flyweight champ, successfully defended his title against Elky Clark, Glasgow, Scotland, and latest ring hope of the British Isles. The fight was staged in New York. La Barba gave Clark a severe trouncing.

Joe Dundee, whose rapid rise had been checked by a one-round knockout at the hands of Eddie Roberts on the Pacific Coast, got a second crack at Roberts and made him be good in 10 rounds.

Mike McTigue met Paul Berlenbach, the Astoria Assassin, and knocked him hopelessly horizontal in the fourth round.

Still, the indications were that the championship distance of fifteen rounds was against him. Never very robust, Slattery has been brought up on a diet of short fights. The gambler himself will have to make the present affair very short if he is going to win.

Light Heavy Foes Battle In Title Go

Loughran Slattery Bout to Determine Crown Wearer.

By George Barry.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Tommy Loughran, said to be the light heavyweight champion by Pennsylvania, New York and associated states, and Jimmy Slattery, alleged to be the light heavyweight champion by the National Boxing association, will meet tonight in the Garden for the only thing that possibly could prompt their meeting—the light heavyweight championship.

Usually at loggerheads, the two leaders of these groups each will have its champion in the ring tonight, and, barring a draw, each naturally will be forced to accept the winner as a legitimate title holder. Without this piece of unnatural inflation, the bout would be just that—a bout.

Loughran got the title here from a man who didn't deserve it, Mike McTigue. The latter merely was voted into this league through the good offices of the New York commission when Jack Delaney resigned to enter the heavyweight division. As for Slattery, he was the choice of the N. B. A. simply because the latter's tendency is to have no part of any action that is taken in New York.

But tonight everybody will have to be satisfied, except the loser. According to the betting, the latter will be Slattery. The odds have favored Loughran all week at about 8 to 5 and today they had soared almost as high as 2 to 1.

From all fighting form, Loughran seems to be a natural choice. He gave Dempsey some hot workouts at Atlantic City and meanwhile has just about beaten every man they have asked him to meet. "Slats," on the other hand, was knocked out several years ago by Dave Shade and Paul Berlenbach and dropped out of sight for a while. He is said to have staged quite a come back since then, however.

Still, the indications were that the championship distance of fifteen rounds was against him. Never very robust, Slattery has been brought up on a diet of short fights. The gambler himself will have to make the present affair very short if he is going to win.

The B. & O. and Nickle Plate quint will pull the throttle tonight in the premier, scheduled for 8:15 o'clock. The second game of the week will be staged Thursday night.

The rivals in the open will use the following players:

B. & O.—Carlos Sayre, Carl Betteridge, Dwight Scott, Lester Kreiger, Earl Roush and Wilbur Heath.

Nickle Plate—Edwin McGraw, Charles Kidd, Albert Wagoner, Norman White, Floyd Beckett and Roy Cook.

Emmet Crawford has been appointed official scorer for the league. Harry Davies will referee tonight's contest.

CHARGE O. S. U. MEN WITH "SCALPING"

COLUMBUS, Dec. 12.—Five men students at Ohio State University face charges of "scalping" tickets on the Ohio Michigan football game, and will be given a hearing before the student court next Saturday, it was learned today.

Those accused are: John N. Neilly, Martins Ferry; Maurice H. Smuckler and Edward R. Beallo of Cleveland; Kenneth Wasserman, of Columbus; and Ben Bell, of Bellevue.

The charges were brought by Henry Taylor, ticket manager at the university. Bell bought student tickets from the others, paying $51 for the four, and was caught as he was disposing of them at "scalper's prices" at Ann Arbor, according to Taylor.

THEY DON'T SEEM TO LIKE THIS JOB

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—Chairmanship of the Illinois boxing commission was tossed back into the political mill today as a result of the announced resignation of John C. Righelmer.

Righelmer admitted sending his resignation to Governor Len Small, but refused to comment further than to say that he was "tired of the job." He said he requested the governor to relieve him at once.

In the two years that the boxing commission has been in existence, Righelmer is the second chairman to resign. O. W. Hunkeler, the original chairman, resigned several months ago and Righelmer, one of the original commissioners, took over the chairmanship. Samuel Luzzo was appointed to fill the vacancy.

Draft War Looms As Big League Moguls Launch Annual Pow Wow

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—For positively the first time since the last time, war clouds loomed dark and portentous over those Balkans of all modern sport—the various and sometimes co-operative segments of professional baseball—as the major leagues today began their four days of annual business with a meeting of the so-called steering committee. This used to be something of a sneering committee because the judge and Ban Johnson were mighty like a sword point. But now Ban is gone and so the boys can begin steering promptly at noon.

If I were rocking the boat as a member of this committee, I would attend immediately to settle the major-league war declarations over the draft. However, I am not on the committee, for which the committee is no more pleased than I am.

The essence of the threatened war is that the majors want the draft, possibly because they are the drafters, and the minors do not want it, because they are the draftees. However, neither can get along without the other, so we might as well turn our attention to something important.

Important Deals Loom. This probably will be found in the lobbies where the boys do their trading rather than in the meeting rooms where the men will do their talking. It is difficult to see how these four days will be permitted to elapse without at least one deal of major importance being swung.

The Washington, Cleveland, St. Louis and Chicago clubs of the American league and the New York, St. Louis, Brooklyn, Cincinnati and Chicago entries in the National admittedly are gunning to improve their hands.

George Sisler, the great sizzler of other days, is supposed to be on the market, for one thing, and it may be that another of those St. Louis-Washington transactions will be closed. The Senators, however, are hot after an infielder and the Browns have none. At least nobody has caught them at it. This being the case, it may be that Stanley Harris will go after Jimmy Dykes of the Athletics.

The disposal, if at all, of Cobb and Speaker will be another item for consideration, although it must be admitted that there was nothing but shrieks of silence in this direction during recent weeks. The trouble is that these gentlemen want money and the only thing Andrew Mellon ever forgot was to invent a substitute.

However, these are only a few of the good ones who are supposed to stand on the block. Even Miller Huggins with a club that won the pennant by nineteen games, is alleged to be thinking his thoughts about trades and transfers. All he wants is Ted Lyons, of the White Sox, Huggins being one of those mouth organs who think only in terms of one hundred (100) cents on the dollar. If he misses Lyons, which seems reasonably possible, they say he will try for George Uhle, of Cleveland.

The champion Pirates, perforce, will be in there swinging for a left hand pitcher and the Cubs will be after an infielder, probably Johnny Butler, of Brooklyn, which has held up this young man's passing in the hope of getting a rise out of Joe McCarthy on a trade at the annual meeting. Whether anything will come of this being reported inclination to take Clint Rhee away from his soul-saving in St. Louis is problematical. The same may happen to Jack Hendricks' generally understood desire to trade almost anybody or everybody on his club.

However, the reports indicate that three good first basemen, George Kelly, of the Reds; Joe Judge, of the Senators, and Lou Blue, of the Tigers, may be offered for barter to anyone who wants them. The trouble is that the clubs who do want them have just about come to realize that you can't get something for nothing.

Cleveland Indians Are Now Genuine "Home Town" Outfit

Appointment of Roger Peckinpaugh to Succeed McAllister Makes it Unanimous.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 12.—With the selection of Roger Peckinpaugh who was appointed Saturday night to succeed Jack McAllister as manager of the Cleveland Indians, the club today was practically a one-hundred percent "home town organization."

Peckinpaugh, who has seen 13 seasons of service as an infielder in the American league, with various clubs, has made his home in Cleveland for several years, while Billy Evans, former American league umpire, and now vice president and general manager of the Indians, also has lived here for some time.

The new owners of the Cleveland club, Alva Bradley, his brother Charles, John Sherwin Jr. and P. J. Morgan, all make Cleveland their home.

Peckinpaugh, accompanied by Bradley and Evans, will attend the major league meetings in New York this week, representing Cleveland in his new capacity, and according to all indications will be given a free rein in lining up a strong team to replace last year's club which finished in the second division. Already a deal is pending with the St. Louis Browns, it was learned, which, if it materializes, may result in Pitcher Elam Van Gilder and Outfielder Harry Rice being transferred to the Indians.

Reports also are current that Miller Huggins of the New York Yankees is negotiating with Cleveland, in an attempt to obtain "Big George" Uhle, pitching ace of the American league in 1926. The latter report could not be confirmed here.

WASHINGTON STEWART'S LETTER.

(Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to Review-Tribune.)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—A great personage in Washington—Washington being national headquarters for great personages at this season—doesn't always look the part.

Some of them are very ordinary appearing individuals.
On the other hand, quite a few notabilities who look as great as Alexander, turn out on investigation to be distinctly mediocre—not all of them even that.
In the case of one group it's all internal. In the case of the second group it's all external. They both fool you at first.

Yet occasionally there's an exception—great inside and out.
About the best specimen of that type in the capital is Representative Theodore E. Burton of Ohio.
The 76-year-old Clevelandian's my idea of a statesman.
You needn't agree with all his views, necessarily. He belongs to the "old guard," certainly. "Radicals" consider him "reactionary."
But how some of 'em don't show up, alongside that old man!

Forty years in congress;
Twenty years, almost continuously, in the house of representatives! Promoted to the senate! Promoted—something unique!—out of the senate, to go back to the house of representatives as a more influential arbiter of government than any senator can possibly be!
International commissioner on every subject of world importance under the sun, at Geneva, Bern, Vienna, Copenhagen, Paris, London, The Hague!
Re-elected this last time "by a large vote" as the Congressional Directory records! Large vote? Well, yes—no opposing candidate. Who says a representative like Theodore E. Burton isn't without honor save in his own district?

A great personage!—in fact.
Now, as to looks?
You've seen his picture in the palooks strong. He'd be appropriate on a throne.

Don't imagine that he takes on airs.
To me, the impression he gives is that he is one of the "fathers" who knew what he wanted this country to be, a generation and a half ago.

Republicans and Democrats alike—what's the odds to a man of Burton's years?—it must seem as if the United States has taken some queer turnings since 1888, when Theodore Burton was first elected to congress.
It would be interesting to get the "low down" on what they think.
But even great men must bear in mind that a campaign of 1928's just coming on, and be careful.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified croscote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.
Of all known drugs, croscote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to croscote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation while the croscote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your pharmacist for it.

pers. You know Burton by sight. He has a face you can't mistake. Some faces you can—or forget. His face, seen once, is his face all the time—because it's a striking face.
Visitors at the Capitol building invariably recognize him—"Oh, that's Burton of Ohio."
You can meet Calvin Coolidge on the street, and never know it—surrounded by "secret servicers" as he is. It happens right along to such an extent that, when the president takes his walks, he has to dodge to keep out of the way of automobiles.
But Burton?—See him once and you remember him forevermore.

Burton must have been a closest in his prime.
It depends upon what you call handsome.
He's nearing 80. My estimate of him is that he's a magnificent old man. He
